various colleges and universities that sports will be resumed at once. This shas been made possible by the demobilization of the S. A. T. C. and the return of many athletes to private life. While not all the former stars will be able to return to their schools in time for the spring and summer sports, they will probably all have returned by next fail. In the meantime coaches find a wealth of material developed while the schools were under military supervision. Efforts are already being made to organize basket ball and hockey teams for the present winter. Yale, Harvard and Princeton are preparing to form a hockey league again. The plans for it are only being held up by the fact that the rink at New Haven, where Yale held its home games, has been turned to other uses. A new rink will likely be arranged for in time to make up a schedule.

Yale held its home games, has been turned to other uses. A new rink will likely be arranged for in time to make up a schedule.

Harvard is probably as well prepared as any of the big Eastern colleges to resume sports on a large scale. Only on the question of football is the crimson in doubt. It is not known whether Maj. Percy Haughton will return to coach the gridiron squad. He is now in France in the chemical warfare branch of the service, and it is not known when he will be able to return to Harvard. In the meantime, Bob Fisher, Haughton's chief assistant; Leo Leary, and Reggy Brown are on hand to handle the gridiron sport until Haughton can take charge.

Yale is preparing to reorganize all sports except football, which will have to wait for further developments next year. But the cages are ready for the baseball candidates and hockey plans are already under consideration. Captains and managers are considering the athletic situation during the holidays with the view of issuing calls for candidates early next mosth.

At Princeton, where the army activities have practically come to an end, practice has already been started in basket ball and swimming, and by the time the new term begins next month there will be a general resumption of sports. Princeton has declared for a full sport calendar and intercellegiate schedules are now being arranged for basket ball, water polo and wreating.

Most important on Princeton's program is the decision to establish football on its former scale. Bill Roper, who coached the championship Tiger eleven in 1911, will probably be engaged again. In addition there will be "Speedy" Rush. Ross McClave, Parke Davis and "Snake" Ames to assist.

Pennsylvania will make its first move to get back to a prevar basis by turning attention to the development of track and field material. Coach Lieut. Lawson Robertson is expected back soon to take charge of the athletes. He has been stationed at Garden City, but a request has been made that he be discharged. He will begin at once to sift material i

Jack Dempsey knocked Gunboat Smith down nine times in a round and a half. The ninth time the Gunner went down to rise no more. Jack then cut another notch in his good right hand.

It has always been known that if a man is hit in the right place he'll fall. Dempsey has been working along this line all along, and when he visited Memphis some time ago he said he had studied it all out from a scientific viewpoint and the reason for all of his knockouts was that he knew where to hit his opponents.

A California doctor named Apple, wha has made a study of knockouts, contributes this information, showing why a wallop produces sleep.

There is no inimuality from a knockout blow. Any man, when hit in the proper place with sufficient force, will permit the referee to count him out," said Dr. Apple.

permit the referee to count him out," said Dr. Apple.
"A hiow on the point of the lower jaw is the favorite knockout punch. The result does not come altogether from a jarring of the nerves, as many believe.
"When the lower jaw is hit hard enough it shoots back. It comes in contact with the jugiar vein. The flow of blood is temporarily stopped. The blood rushes back to the brain and temporary congestion ensues. This renders a man insensible for a time. Until the blood flow readjusts itself one is practically out of existence.

OLD ROMAN SURPRISES.

OLD ROMAN SURPRISES.

One of the New Year's biggest surprises occurred today when the news filtered over the A.P. wires that Clarence Rewland had been succeeded by Kid Gleason as manager of the Chicago White. Sox.

Rowland piloted the Sox to a world's championship in 1917, and was proclaimed as the baseball managerial find of the decade. But it seems that Pants lost his stinger. His players got from under his grasp. He was unable to handle them. It has been rumored for some time that Fants would be decorated with the tinware.

The appointment of Gleason was a great surprise, as it will be remembered that Gleason, who helped coach the team in 1917 and who was one of the main reasons why the White Sox won the world's championship, quit the team cold when he was not given a full share of the world's series receipts.
